Business Problem: Customer Support

GOLDEN GATE SYSTEMS began five years ago specializing in on-site support services, sales and installation of Hewlett-Packard 3000 and 9000 computer systems, printers, and peripherals.

Our service technicians are constantly traveling to distinct customer locations, we needed a CRM system to provide service information to customers and staff in real time. We required automatic notification to changes by customers to their cases. Also, we wanted a system robust enough to run our entire business not just customer service, we needed sales tracking, mass emails, and project management for system installations.
